CROPS LOOK VERY PROMISING IN MINNESOTA

GENERAL CROP AND WEATHER CONDITIONS GOOD

SURVEY MADE PUBLIC BY KIRK, MINNESOTA AGRICULTURAL STATISTICIAN

HARVESTING OF WINTER WHEAT AND RYE SOON TO BE IN FULL SWING

(By United Press)
St. Paul, July 17.—One of the most promising crop reports in the history of the service was given out today by Paul H. Kirk, Minnesota agricultural statistician.

"General crop and weather conditions were very favorable the past week, and for all small grains, particularly at this time, is promising," he said in his weekly report for the United States Department of Agriculture and the Minnesota Department of Agriculture.

"Corn is still reported from 10 days to two weeks behind on a state basis.

"Harvesting of winter wheat and rye will soon be in full swing with both crops generally having good yields."

"All other small grains are headed and early sown grains are filling under nearly ideal conditions. It appears that nothing will materially change the outlook for small grains.

"Potatoes are in excellent condition. Late crops are being cultivated.

"Hay is reported from fair to good. The second crop of alfalfa is making a good second growth. Pastures are in fair to good condition.

"Livestock are reported in satisfactory condition."

HIGHEST PRICES IN 5 YEARS IN CHICAGO

Chicago, July 17.—All grains and provisions except July corn and future lard deliveries reached the highest prices of the last five years on the Chicago Board of Trade today.

July wheat closed at $1.30½ a bushel, a gain of 3 3-4c during the day's trading. December brought $1.32.

December corn closed at 94½c, an advance of 4½c.

The big advance in wheat prices was largely based on the prediction by the U. S. Department of Agriculture that this country would be called upon to export large quantities of durum wheat to Mediterranean points where the crop is almost a total failure.

Further reports of crop damage in Canada added to the bullish spirit of the wheat pit and corn and oats followed its lead.

It was another stormy day in the pit and another day of advances.

Yankee World-Girdling Fliers Soon at Home

FEAR FELT OVER FATE OF BRITISH WORLD AVIATOR

(By United Press)
London, July 17.—Fear was felt here today over the fate of Major A. S. C. MacLaren, British world flier, who is battling the blizzards of the Kuriles Islands in an attempt to cross the Pacific from Japan to Alaska. The aviator last was heard from when he hopped off from Yutorofu Island headed for Paramushiro Island early Wednesday.

The American around the world fliers came safely through the difficulties and perils of these islands and found it to be the most perilous and difficult passage of the entire voyage.

Lieut. Smith, commanding the American flight, assured Mrs. MacLaren, wife of the British aviator, who met him yesterday, that he was confident her husband would come safely through.

FEAR GROWS FOR SAFETY OF AVIATOR

Tokio, Japan, July 17.—Although early reports today caused optimism as to the safety of Major A. Stewart MacLaren, missing British round the world aviator, fear of his safety was greatly increased tonight.

One source described the search for him as "apparently hopeless."

Reports indicate that blizzards, for which the Kurile Islands, his destination, are famous, may have arisen and brought disaster.

Japanese destroyers searching for the aviator had found no trace of him at any of the emergency landing points.

FLOOD PERIL CONTINUES GRAVE IN S. E. CHINA

THUS FAR THE CITY OF TIENTSIN HAS BEEN SPARED

BUT DIKES HAVE GIVEN AWAY IN THE IMMEDIATE VICINITY

(By United Press)
Pekin, July 17.—The peril of floods in southeastern China continues grave.

Thus far the city of Tientsin has been spared. Two small dikes broke today, flooding districts east and west of the city, but other dikes protecting Tientsin have held. Thousands of soldiers and coolies are toiling in relays repairing small leaks.

Five villages west of Tientsin were inundated and destroyed but the railroad line through the rice-lands withstood the waters.

Pekin still is menaced by a river torrent raging 15 miles to the westward but the capital is thought safe. Approximately 360 brick and wooden houses were crumbled.

It is expected he will be succeeded as president by Jacob France of Baltimore, now a vice-president of the company and assistant to J. S. Cosden since formation of the company and its entry into the oil fields in 1913. The company is incorporated in Delaware with its principal holdings in Oklahoma.

LEOPOLD, LOEB, IRRATIONAL, TO BE DEFENSE CLAIM

DARROW TO PLEAD FIRST FOR A
SANITY HEARING

IF THIS FAILS WILL ARGUE FOR POSTPONEMENT OF TRIAL

Chicago, July 17.—Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, confessed slayers of 14-year-old Robert Franks, are not guilty of the murder as the legal world looks upon it, the defense will argue when the two young millionaires' sons are brought to trial on Aug. 4.

This fact, exclusively revealed by the United Press on July 10, was confirmed today in a statement by Clarence Darrow, chief defense counsel.

Darrow outlined the defense case as it has been built up by more than a dozen physicians who have examined Leopold and Loeb in the death cell of the county jail.

"Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb are unbalanced mentally and do not live, think or act in the way that rational beings, as the medical world knows them, do in everyday life," Darrow said.

Leopold, a few months older, more precocious, and less affected by human emotions than young Loeb, is the better example of a deranged mind in Darrow's opinion.

"Leopold lives in an entirely different world than that in which you and I exist," the famous criminal lawyer who will defend the boys from the gallows declared. "In his mind he had built a wall which shuts him from the conventionalities of the present day and makes him the superman. He does not believe in the laws that rule us.

"If the jury which tries these boys sends them to the gallows, they will be hanging two boys who are insane and will be doing an act against the common law of every nation.

"The lawyers and the doctors who have examined Leopold and Loeb—and even their parents—are convinced that it would not be safe to let them free on the streets or in society at large. We will not, therefore, attempt to have them go free, but we will make every effort to forestall their hanging. They should be committed to an insane asylum.

Examination of the young murderers has been completed, Darrow announced and the findings of the alienists and psychiatrists is about whittled into shape for presentation to the jury.

On July 21 when Judge John E. Caverly is to hear any and all motions in the case, Darrow is prepared to demand that the defendants be given a sanity hearing rather than a criminal trial. If this fails, the defense will then argue for a postponement from Aug. 4.

The state, it is understood, will demand the trial start as scheduled on Aug. 4.

CLAIM VICIOUS PROPAGANDA SPREAD

Chicago, July 17.—Attorneys engaged by the millionaire Leopold and Loeb families in an effort to save their sons from the gallows "are spreading vicious propaganda" which is intended to show the boys insane, representatives of the state charged today.

The defense, according to Dr. William O. Krohn, state's alienist, is attempting to paint the careers of young Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb "even blacker than they really are, so as to make the world believe they were insane."

Reports circulated that Leopold and Loeb had plotted to murder Leopold's younger brother before they changed their plans and killed 14-year-old Robert Franks instead, were branded as "vicious lies" by Dr. Krohn.

"The more heinous and diabolic the crimes that are laid at the door of Leopold and Loeb, the more incomprehensible the university student."

IOWA APPLE CROP IS OFF NORMAL, STATED

(By United Press)
Des Moines, Ia., July 17.—Unfavorable weather this year will reduce the Iowa apple crop to about 70 per cent of normal, a condition general over the United States, it was predicted today by R. S. Herrick, secretary of the Iowa State Horticultural Service.

SHELLS PEPPERED AROUND THE U. S. CONSULATE IN BRAZIL

Washington, July 17.—Shells fell within half a block of the American consulate in Sao Paulo when federal forces were bombarding the stronghold of the Brazilian rebels on July 12, the state department was advised today in a cable from Sao Paulo dated July 12. The consulate was undamaged, however, the message stated.

Six persons in the Hotel D'Oeste were killed when shells struck the building, the message said.

WOMAN SLEEP WALKER KILLED

MRS. W. F. KOON FALLS FROM 6TH FLOOR WINDOW, MON-TREAL HOTEL

(By United Press)
Montreal, July 17.—Mrs. W. F. Koon, 44; wife of a Minneapolis banker, fell to death from a sixth-story window in a hotel here today while supposedly sleep walking.

Mrs. Koon was here for a visit, accompanied by her husband and E. J. Hibbard. Koon did not awaken until he heard the crash of his wife's body on the areaway outside the hotel.

Mrs. Koon had been suffering from fainting and dizzy spells, it was said. The coroner brought in a verdict of accidental death.

ents will become to the man in the streets," Dr. Krohn explained in defense of his charges. "When a man does something you cannot possibly conceive of doing you will naturally explain it by saying, 'why, that man must be crazy.'"

Reports that the defense had tried to show that Leopold and Loeb plotted to murder the younger brother of Leopold were vigorously denied by Clarence Darrow, chief defense counsel.

"Those are lies—nothing but lies," Darrow said.

Dr. Krohn has announced every precaution would be taken by the state to spike any such testimony should it be offered by the defense during the course of the trial which opens August 4.

"The defense will use every means possible," Dr. Krohn predicted, "to have these murderers sent to an insane asylum instead of the gallows. They will try to make the jury believe they are insane. They will paint the defendants blacker than they really are in order to show that they are 'different' from ordinary boys.

"A man may depart a long way from the normal conduct of the 'average man' and still be very sane and responsible.

"Take the so-called 'human spider' who earns his living by scrambling up the steep sides of tall office buildings. The average man prefers to be a doctor, clerk or baker. He may even consider the 'human fly' a bit off the nut. But suppose the spider from his dizzy height pulled a gun and shoots down into the street and kills a barber. He is just as guilty of murder, just as responsible as if the baker had pulled a gun and shot the spider.

"It is the same with these university students. They departed a long way from the actions of the 'average man.' They are remarkable students and their interests are along strange lines, but that cannot give the boys an excuse for the murder they committed."

London, July 17.—American Ambassador Kellogg and Col. James A. Logan, Jr., placed their services at the disposal of all three committees of the inter-allied conference today. They are ready to take part in the preliminary work of the conference wherever their presence is required.

There was an air of "strictly business"—which seemed to be the keynote—about the deliberations today, and an atmosphere of mingled good will and anxiety at the foreign office.

The conference will not meet in plenary session again until the committees have ironed out differences of opinion over agenda and other matters in dispute.

Today's London newspapers stressed the perils of failure but professed to take heart from the participation of the Americans.

Here the fliers will remain until July 25, while their planes are equipped with pontoons for the homeward journey across the Atlantic via the Orkneys, Iceland, Greenland and Labrador.

Brough is on the east coast near Hull, less than 200 miles from London. But 7,000 miles remain to be covered before the planes will have completed their world journey.

A small group of British air service officials waved farewell and bon voyage when the three American planes took the air from Croydon at 11:10 a. m., soaring southward to gain altitude and then swinging about and making off on a beeline for Brough.

Before taking off Lieut. Smith expressed confidence that Major MacLaren, British world flier, who is reported missing somewhere in the Kuriles Islands northeastward of Japan, was safe.

"Corn is still reported from 10 days to two weeks behind on a state basis.

HIGHEST PRICES IN 5 YEARS IN CHICAGO

Chicago, July 17.—All grains and provisions except July corn and future lard deliveries reached the highest prices of the last five years on the Chicago Board of Trade today.

July wheat closed at $1.30½ a bushel, a gain of 3-4c during the day's trading. December brought $1.32.

December corn closed at 94½c, an advance of 4½c.

The big advance in wheat prices was largely based on the prediction by the U. S. Department of Agriculture that this country would be called upon to export large quantities of durum wheat to Mediterranean points where the crop is almost a total failure.

Further reports of crop damage in Canada added to the bullish spirit of the wheat pit and corn and oats followed its lead.

It was another stormy day in the pit and another day of advances.

LEOPOLD, LOEB, IRRATIONAL, TO BE DEFENSE CLAIM

DARROW TO PLEAD FIRST FOR A
SANITY HEARING

IF THIS FAILS WILL ARGUE FOR
TRIAL

Chicago, July 17.—Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, confessed slayers of 14-year-old Robert Franks, are not guilty of the murder as the legal world looks upon it, the defense will argue when the two young millionaires' sons are brought to trial on Aug. 4.

This fact, exclusively revealed by the United Press on July 10, was confirmed today in a statement by Clarence Darrow, chief defense counsel.

Darrow outlined the defense case as it has been built up by more than a dozen physicians who have examined Leopold and Loeb in the death cell of the county jail.

Examination of the young murderers has been completed, Darrow announced and the findings of the alienists and psychiatrists is about whipped into shape for presentation to the jury.

On July 21 when Judge John R. Caverly is to hear any and all motions in the case, Darrow is prepared to demand that the defendants be given a sanity hearing rather than a criminal trial. If this fails, the defense will then argue for a postponement from Aug. 4.

The state, it is understood, will demand the trial start as scheduled on Aug. 4.

CLAIM VICIOUS PROPAGANDA SPREAD

Chicago, July 17.—Attorneys engaged by the millionaire Leopold and Loeb families in an effort to save their sons from the gallows "are spreading vicious propaganda" which is intended to show the boys insane, representatives of the state charged today.

The defense, according to Dr. William O. Krohn, state's alienist, is attempting to paint the careers of young Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb "even blacker than they really are, so as to make the world believe they were insane."

Reports circulated that Leopold and Loeb had plotted to murder Leopold's younger brother before they changed their plans and killed 14-year old Robert Franks instead, were branded as "vicious lies" by Dr. Krohn.

"The more heinous and diabolic the crimes that are laid at the door of Leopold and Loeb, the more incomprehensible the university students will become to the man in the streets," Dr. Krohn explained in defense of his charges. "When a man does something you cannot possibly conceive of doing you will naturally explain it by saying, 'why, that man must be crazy.'"

(By United Press)
Brough, England, July 17.—Lieut. Lowell Smith and his comrades of the United States army world flight arrived safely at Brough today, having flown from Croydon airdrome outside London in two hours.

The leading plane piloted by Smith landed at 1:10 p. m. and the others landed at 1:10 a. m. Here the fliers will remain until July 25, while their planes are equipped with pontoons for the homeward journey across the Atlantic via the Orkneys, Iceland, Greenland and Labrador.

Brough is on the east coast near Hull, less than 200 miles from London. But 7,000 miles remain to be covered before the planes will have completed their world journey.

A small group of British air service officials waved farewell and bon voyage when the three American planes took the air from Croydon at 11:10 a. m., soaring southward to gain altitude and then swinging about and making off on a beeline for Brough.

Before taking off Lieut. Smith expressed confidence that Major MacLaren, British world flier, who is reported missing somewhere in the Kuriles Islands northeastward of Japan, was safe.

HERO'S BURIAL PLACE IS IN CHICAGO PARK

Pleasure Spot Holds Grave of David Kennison.

Many of the thousands of visitors to Lincoln park have discovered for themselves near the Wisconsin street entrance a granite boulder set with a bronze tablet designating the spot as approximately the burial place of David Kennison.

It has been seventy years since Kennison's death, when, at the age of one hundred fifteen years, three months and seventeen days, he was the last survivor of the Boston "tea party." Now his grave tablet with the inscription, is the only reminder of a life that was picturesque in more ways than one.

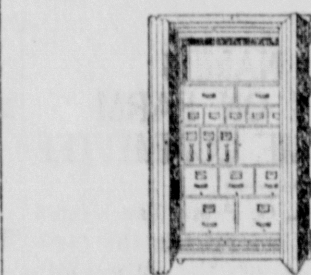

Kennison was an early settler in Chicago, as well as a veteran of the Revolutionary war and the War of 1812. He came here in 1845, when he was 100 years old. Since his fighting days he had been crushed by a falling tree and wounded by a cannon ball fired at a military review, and had only a pension of $8 a month to maintain him. Nevertheless he started west looking for thrills and fortune.

For a year or so after coming to the young metropolis on the lake shore, Kennison worked as a day laborer. Then his fame as a "pioneer" at the Boston "tea party" having spread, he obtained the post of lecturer at Mooney's museum, 73 West Lake street. Besides introducing Prater's Genuine Virginia minstrels and discussing the wax figures and other strange exhibits, he gave a lecture at each performance on the dumping of tea in Boston harbor.

Kennison was made manager of the museum in 1848 and he announced that to the public in the following manner:

"I have taken the museum in this city, which I was obliged to do in order to get a comfortable living, as my pension is so small it scarcely affords the comforts of life. If I live until the 17th of November, 1848, I shall be 112 years old, and I intend making a donation party on that day at the museum. I have fought in several battles for my country. All I ask of the generous public is to call at the museum on the 17th of November, which is my birthday, and donate to me what they think I deserve."

The aged patriot not only lived to be host at his donation party, but almost four years beyond then. His death occurred February 24, 1852. The funeral was held from the First Methodist church and the procession was the most imposing military turnout seen in Chicago up to that time. His body was buried in the cemetery that then was situated in the present park. After the cemetery had been moved the Illinois chapter of the Sons of the Revolution, and the Daughters of the American Revolution marked his grave with the boulder and tablet.—Chicago News.

Lost Mines in Arizona

Of all the legends of buried treasure, the most persistent is the one about the lost gold mines of Arizona. Only the Indians are supposed to possess the secret of this baffling mystery, although the story has been circulated for more than a century.

That there once were mines in the region is indicated by references found in early Spanish diaries and by the tales passed down through several generations of natives who were compelled to dig the ore as slaves of their conquerors. The chief evidence in support of the tradition is the altar of the San Xavier mission, not far from Tucson. It is described as being "inlaid with virgin gold." Mission records show that the precious metal was brought from Canada del Oro where it was mined by Indians under the direction of Spanish priests.

But no trace now exists of the diggings, and the old trail over which the gold is said to have been carried by pack mules disappears abruptly in the sands.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

One Man Army

The interest with which the progress of the Everest expedition is being followed is yet another proof that England is a sporting nation, declares the London Sphere. We all wish it well—and shall continue to follow it the more keenly if its future bulletins are as entertaining as the first sent home from Phari Dzong by Gen. C. G. Bruce. This is a model of readability and includes one little vignette, which throws a felicitous light on militarist human nature the world over:

At the frontier, on crossing into independent Sikkim, we were met by the guard, a single policeman. When he had finished the necessary official documents: "Right and salute," roared the guard at himself, and duly saluted with the right hand: "Left turn," he bellowed, and turned to the left: "Quick march," he shrieked and straightway took himself off.

All I ask of the generous public is to call at the museum on the 17th of November, which is my birthday, and donate to me what they think I deserve."

The aged patriot not only lived to be host at his donation party, but almost four years beyond then. His death occurred February 24, 1852. The funeral was held from the First Methodist church and the procession was the most imposing military turnout seen in Chicago up to that time. His body was buried in the cemetery that then was situated in the present park. After the cemetery had been moved the Illinois chapter of the Sons of the Revolution, and the Daughters of the American Revolution marked his grave with the boulder and tablet.—Chicago News.

Lost Mines in Arizona

Of all the legends of buried treasure, the most persistent is the one about the lost gold mines of Arizona. Only the Indians are supposed to possess the secret of this baffling mystery, although the story has been circulated for more than a century.

That there once were mines in the region is indicated by references found in early Spanish diaries and by the tales passed down through several generations of natives who were compelled to dig the ore as slaves of their conquerors. The chief evidence in support of the tradition is the altar of the San Xavier mission, not far from Tucson. It is described as being "inlaid with virgin gold." Mission records show that the precious metal was brought from Canada del Oro where it was mined by Indians under the direction of Spanish priests.

But no trace now exists of the diggings, and the old trail over which the gold is said to have been carried by pack mules disappears abruptly in the sands.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

One Man Army

The interest with which the progress of the Everest expedition is being followed is yet another proof that England is a sporting nation, declares the London Sphere. We all wish it well—and shall continue to follow it the more keenly if its future bulletins are as entertaining as the first sent home from Phari Dzong by Gen. C. G. Bruce. This is a model of readability and includes one little vignette, which throws a felicitous light on militarist human nature the world over:

At the frontier, on crossing into Independent Sikkim, we were met by the guard, a single policeman. When he had finished the necessary official documents: "Right and salute," roared the guard at himself, and duly saluted with the right hand: "Left turn," he bellowed, and turned to the left: "Quick march," he shrieked and straightway took himself off.

WILL STUDY DOMESTIC HABITS OF GORILLA

(By United Press) New York, July 17.—Dr. W. B. Reid, a surgeon of note and former mayor of Rome, N. Y., is about to visit Africa to study the domestic life of the gorilla. Dr. Reid has a unique plan of using a flammenwerfer as a protective measure on his expedition into the jungles of East Africa to study the domestic and social habits of the gorilla.

"Being a surgeon," said Dr. Reid, "I am naturally opposed to taking life. It is our purpose to establish a semi-permanent base in the Kenia Mountains in British East Africa and there to live among the gorillas wholly without guns, revolvers, rifles or other protective weapons."

"The gorilla is naturally timid and shy. He will not harm a human being unless he is cornered."

"The chemicals and the flammenwerfer will be used solely for protective purposes. They will never be used by our party to destroy life or wantonly to injure."

CENSUS MADE OF ROAD TRAFFIC

State Highway Department Commences Compiling Statistics of Trunk Highways Here

CHECKERS ARE STATIONED

Careful Count Being Made of All Vehicles in Each Direction

The Minnesota State Highway Department is today taking a census of traffic on all trunk highways leading into Brainerd. This is the fourth such survey of traffic that has been made this season, and it is expected that several more will follow.

Checkers are stationed at three points on highways leading into the city, and are making a careful count of all vehicles passing in each direction. This includes passenger cars, divided into "A" and "B" classes of light and heavy machines, foreign automobiles, transportation busses and trucks, and horse drawn vehicles divided into wagon and buggy classes.

William Graham, Jr. and Eugene Hitch are checking the traffic at the two-mile corner west of Brainerd, keeping a record of all travel on highways No. 2 and No. 19.

Wm. Johnstone and Harold Opsahl are stationed at the four-mile corner east of Brainerd, checking the traffic north on highway No. 2, and east on highway No. 18.

John Linneman and Mark Peterson are stationed at the Fredstrom corner south of the city checking the travel on highway No. 27.

In former years the state department has taken only one census of the traffic during the summer, usually in August, and continuing for one week. This year a number of one-day checkings are being made over a period of the entire season. The local maintenance department advises that traffic this year is running much heavier than in seasons past, according to the census that have been taken this year.

These checkings are taken so that the department may have statistics upon which to base the construction and maintenance work, and to ascertain whether the present highways will stand up under the travel to which they are subjected.

Transformation of Lizzie, the Coupon Beauty

By BEVIS ALTON

(© 1924, Western Newspaper Union.)

"SAY, ma'am, some folks is scandalous mean in a town like Haversham. Now, there was that Lizzie Smith that I have in mind. Lizzie was verging on twenty-five and never had a beau. You see, she's been a sort of drudge to that cranky old aunt of hers, and when Miss Rogers died it was found she'd only left five hundred a year to Lizzie and the rest went to an old beau of hers who was a married man with nine children in Littlefield."

"Well, ma'am, Lizzie had got so subdued that she couldn't perk up even when she found herself sort of fixed for life. She wore the dowdiest old clothes, and hats that had been out of style for fifteen years. She boarded with the Flynn sisters, and you know they're cranks, too. They didn't encourage her to spruce herself at all. Results: At twenty-five Lizzie looks like a sour old scarecrow that couldn't get married nohow."

"Then Alf Perks comes along. Alf travels in drugs. He comes through every year, and last year, because he'd fooled all the girls around these parts, and couldn't get anyone to go with him, what does he do but make up to Lizzie."

"Now, it may have been devilry on Alf's part, or it may have been kindness. Anyway, when he came back six months later, on his return journey, not selling drugs this time, he didn't speak to Lizzie. He met Susie Riley, who'd given him the cold shoulder the time before, and they got so thick together inside of five minutes that they walked right past the Flynn porch, where Lizzie was setting, and he didn't even raise his eyes. Which, of course, was what Susie Riley had wanted."

"Now, I was saying folks are mean. It wasn't a month later when the Argus started a competition for the prettiest girl in town. There was to be a voting match, and the one that had the most coupons filled out won the prize of a silk dress and a picture hat. And some of the young people put their heads together and decided to have Lizzie win the prize."

"Well, the long and the short of it was, everybody began sending in coupons naming Lizzie Smith as being the prettiest girl in Haversham. Susie Riley was second. Lizzie, who'd never had a beau, the prettiest girl in Haversham! The joke was on her and no mistake."

"She'll leave town, sure," says Cy Holt to me, as we read the announcement. "Nobody but a hippopotamus could stand for a thing like that and survive. And Lizzie ain't no hippopotamus. I saw her crying after Alf Perks turned her down. She was going into town, and the tears was just streaming."

"Now, you may have heard it said that an evil thought turns back to the person that thinks it. And in this case the plot proved a boom—boom—boomerang. Ain't that the thing you throw that comes back and hits you? Well, Lizzie Smith's silk dress and hat duly arrived by the new parcel post, and, being only a woman, if she was a scarecrow, she put them on. Miss Georgine Flynn told me she thought she'd wear out her pier mirror, she stood looking at herself so long in it. Then Lizzie took the dress and hat off and put on her old rags and biked into town. We had been watching to see what she'd do. In she goes to the shop of Miss Peters, the women's outfitter."

"She hadn't been gone five minutes, carrying a whole raft of parcels, when all Haversham was in the shop to find out what she'd bought. Some folks are so snooty, you know. I asked Miss Peters. Well, you could have knocked me down with a feather! She'd spent five and twenty dollars. She'd bought underwear and shoes and gloves and jabots and handkerchiefs and valises! Say! I met Lizzie that evening on the street."

"Why, what's happened, Lizzie Smith? I asked her. The shock was terrific. She was all dolled up like a actress."

"Haven't you heard? she answered. 'The Argus has voted me the prettiest girl in Haversham by a majority of 343 votes. My! I never dreamed that I was pretty at all. Did you think me pretty?' she asks, throwing back her head."

"Not so as you would remark it," I wanted to say, but I didn't. For Lizzie was standing under the big electric light in front of Ill Taylor's drug store, and the change in her struck me all of a heap. Pretty? You bet she was. I'd never seen such a transformation in my life. In her silk dress and the picture hat, and the new gloves, and the other things, she looked like a queen. All the droopy look to her mouth had gone, and her eyes was shining like two stars."

"And I don't know how it happened, but suddenly the thought of how mean Haversham had been to her, and how the folks had tried to hurt her come over me like a blow. I took Lizzie's face in my hands and I kissed it."

"That's all. No, that ain't all, neither. I forgot to say that when Alf Perks come through this year he saw Lizzie and he wouldn't go to the show with any girl but her. And they're going to be married next month. If Alf can get a couple of weeks leave of absence."

CENSUS MADE OF ROAD TRAFFIC

State Highway Department Commences Compiling Statistics of Trunk Highways Here

CHECKERS ARE STATIONED

Careful Count Being Made of All Vehicles in Each Direction

The Minnesota State Highway Department is today taking a census of traffic on all trunk highways leading into Brainerd. This is the fourth such survey of traffic that has been made this season, and it is expected that several more will follow.

Checkers are stationed at three points on highways leading into the city, and are making a careful count of all vehicles passing in each direction. This includes passenger cars, divided into "A" and "B" classes of light and heavy machines, foreign automobiles, transportation busses and trucks, and horse drawn vehicles divided into wagon and buggy classes.

William Graham, Jr., and Eugene Hitch are checking the traffic at the two-mile corner west of Brainerd, keeping a record of all travel on highways No. 2 and No. 19.

Wm. Johnstone and Harold Opsahl are stationed at the four-mile corner east of Brainerd, checking the traffic north on highway No. 2, and east on highway No. 18.

John Linneman and Mark Paterson are stationed at the Fredstrom corner south of the city checking the travel on highway No. 27.

In former years the state department has taken only one census of the traffic during the summer, usually in August, and continuing for one week. This year a number of one-day checkings are being made over a period of the entire season. The local maintenance department advises that traffic this year is running much heavier than in seasons past, according to the census that have been taken this year.

These checkings are taken so that the department may have statistics upon which to base the construction and maintenance work, and to ascertain whether the present highways will stand up under the travel to which they are subjected.

Practical Education

A practice house or model cottage is a part of the general equipment of home economics in all vocational schools of Oregon. Each girl has experience in all the fundamentals of the household—food preparation, house cleaning, laundry and sewing. The food-preparation classes give the actual experience of buying and preparing for a number of persons. The girls are taught the spending value of the dollar, principles of house decoration, child care and home nursing.

Transformation of Lizzie, the Coupon Beauty

By BEVIS ALTON

(© 1924, Western Newspaper Union.)

"SAY, ma'am, some folks is scandalous mean in a town like Haversham. Now, there was that Lizzie Smith that I have in mind. Lizzie was verging on twenty-five and never had a bean. You see, she's been a sort of drudge to that cranky old aunt of hers, and when Miss Rogers died it was found she'd only left five hundred a year to Lizzie and the rest went to an old beau of hers who was a married man with nine children in Littlefield."

"Well, ma'am, Lizzie had got so subdued that she couldn't perk up even when she found herself sort of fixed for life. She wore the dowdiest old clothes, and hats that had been out of style for fifteen years. She boarded with the Flynn sisters, and you know they're cranks, too. They didn't encourage her to spruce herself at all. Results: At twenty-five Lizzie looks like a sour old scarecrow that couldn't get married nohow."

"Then Alf Perks comes along. Alf travels in drugs. He comes through every year, and last year, because he'd fooled all the girls around these parts, and couldn't get anyone to go with him, what does he do but make up to Lizzie."

"Now, it may have been devilry on Alf's part, or it may have been kind-heartedness. Anyway, when he come back six months later, on his return journey, not selling drugs this time, he didn't speak to Lizzie. He met Susie Riley, who'd given him the cold shoulder the time before, and they got so thick together inside of five minutes that they walked right past the Flynn porch, where Lizzie was setting, and he didn't even raise his eyes. Which, of course, was what Susie Riley had wanted."

"Now, I was saying folks are mean. It wasn't a month later when the Argus started a competition for the prettiest girl in town. There was to be a voting match, and the one that had the most coupons filled out won the prize of a silk dress and a picture hat. And some of the young people put their heads together and decided to have Lizzie win the prize."

"Well, the long and the short of it was, everybody began sending in coupons naming Lizzie Smith as being the prettiest girl in Haversham. Susie Riley was second. Lizzie, who'd never had a bean, the prettiest girl in Haversham! The joke was on her and no mistake."

"She'll leave town, sure," says Cy Holt to me, as we read the announcement. "Nobody but a hippopotamus could stand for a thing like that and survive. And Lizzie ain't no hippopotamus. I saw her crying after Alf Perks turned her down. She was going into town, and the tears was just streaming."

"Now, you may have heard it said that an evil thought turns back to the person that thinks it. And in this case the plot proved a boom—boom—boomerang. Ain't that the thing you throw that comes back and hits you? Well, Lizzie Smith's silk dress and hat duly arrived by the next parcel post, and, being only a woman, if she was a scarecrow, she put them on. Miss Georgine Flynn told me she thought she'd wear out her pier mirror, she stood looking at herself so long in it. Then Lizzie took the dress and hat off and put on her old rags and biked into town. We had been watching to see what she'd do. In she goes to the shop of Miss Peters, the women's outfitter."

"She hadn't been gone five minutes, carrying a whole raft of parcels, when all Haversham was in the shop to find out what she'd bought. Some folks are so snooty, you know. I asked Miss Peters. Well, you could have knocked me down with a feather! She'd spent five and twenty dollars. She'd bought underwear and shoes and gloves and jabots and handkerchiefs and waists! Say! I met Lizzie that evening on the street."

"Why, what's happened, Lizzie Smith? I asked her. The shock was terrific. She was all dolled up like a actress."

"Haven't you heard? she answered. 'The Argus has voted me the prettiest girl in Haversham by a majority of 337 votes. My! I never dreamed that I was pretty at all. Did you think me pretty? She asks, throwing back her head."

"Not so as you would remark it, I wanted to say, but I didn't. For Lizzie was standing under the big electric light in front of Ill Taylor's drug store, and the change in her struck me all of a heap. Pretty? You bet she was. I'd never seen such a transformation in my life. In her silk dress and the picture hat, and the new gloves, and the other things, she looked like a queen. All the droopy look to her mouth had gone, and her eyes was shining like two stars."

"And I don't know how it happened, but suddenly the thought of how mean Haversham had been to her, and how the folks had tried to hurt her come over me like a blow. I took Lizzie's face in my hands and I kissed it."

"That's all. No, that ain't all, neither. I forgot to say that when Alf Perks come through this year he saw Lizzie and he wouldn't go to the show with any girl but her. And they're going to be married next month, if Alf can get a couple of weeks leave of absence."

"She'll leave town, sure," says Cy Holt to me, as we read the announce-

FUSED QUARTZ
AS AID TO HEALTH

Makes Healing Ultra-Violet Rays Independent of Sun.

New York.—The perfected method of making fused quartz in quantities, as announced recently by the General Electric company, is expected to make man independent of the sun's rays so far as his ability to obtain ultra-violet rays are concerned, according to the opinion of scientists now engaged in experimenting with the newly developed material.

E. R. Berry, assistant director of the Thomson research laboratory of the General Electric company, announced that he had enlisted the services of Dr. W. T. Bowie, professor of bio-physics at Harvard medical school, and Dr. Clarence C. Little of the University of Maine and their institutions to further important experiments in the use of fused quartz.

The property which makes fused quartz stand out above all others is its ability to transmit ultra-violet rays, the healing chemical rays which, emitted by the sun, cause sunburn. These rays are excluded by ordinary window glass.

Now that Mr. Berry has made it possible to produce fused quartz in quantities, efforts are being made to learn whether it will be practicable to use the material in the extensive manufacture of electric bulbs.

Independent of the Sun.

"If we can provide artificial illuminants that will emit ultra-violet rays we won't have to depend on the sun, which is so uncertain in winter," said Doctor Bowie. "We can get the sun's effects on cloudy days by using quartz bulbs or tubes with incandescent light."

Doctor Bowie is planning to erect on the grounds of Harvard university a greenhouse glassed with quartz in which will be determined certain effects of the rays upon growing plants with a view to applying any knowledge thus gained to improving human health or preventing human diseases. Experiments with a similar object are to be made in the University of Maine laboratories, where conditions are considered especially favorable.

While those who have undertaken the experiments with quartz desire to refrain from raising false hopes as to the possibility of curing or preventing certain stubborn diseases, they feel encouraged that infant mortality from rickets, particularly in crowded cities, may be further reduced as a result of the work.

"We all know that exclusion of light results in the blanching of plants," said Doctor Bowie. "They may become more succulent for table purposes, but their tissues are not stout and well developed. This is because calcium and phosphorus salts are not deposited in the absence of the ultra-violet rays in sunlight."

"Similarly, if babies are submitted to the same absence of sunlight, or of ultra-violet rays, their bones do not grow, and hence rickets set in. This is a common disease, how common is not generally realized. It is perhaps little realized, either, that it is prevalent among the babies of the well-to-do who are not allowed to play in the streets."

"Remember that playing in the sun, behind window glass, does not expose the children to these beneficial rays. However, quartz windows which do admit these rays are now entirely within the bounds of possibility as a result of Mr. Berry's work."

"But to get back to rickets! Autopsies on babies in Dresden showed that of those who were born in the fall and died in the spring, 93 per cent had rickets. Of those who were born in the spring and died in the fall only a very small percentage had rickets. The babies born in the spring were outdoors in the sunlight during the summer."

After remarking that the sun's effects could be obtained on cloudy days by the use of quartz bulbs, Doctor Bowie added: "Certain foods act sympathetically to sunlight. It is not inconceivable that we could light our restaurants with sources of ultra-violet light so that while partaking of foods rich in phosphorus and calcium we could partake of light energy that would enable us to utilize these salts in normal manner."

"There are diseases other than rickets which are due to faulty metabolism, the 'machine gun sneeze' is one. Such diseases might be alleviated by feeding calcium lactate and using ultra-violet light in connection with it."

"Altogether, the availability of quartz suggests very interesting possibilities. With Doctor Little we are undertaking the investigation of the effects of the ultra-violet rays on the calcium metabolism of milk cows. The object, of course, is to see if the rays can have any effect on the milk we feed our babies. It is not improbable. Other animals feel the effect of the lack of these rays. Deep-sea fish do not produce bones, though living in water prodigally saturated with calcium salts. Fish of the same species living in the upper water, where the sun rays strike through, have bones in profusion."

Ultra-Violet Rays for Poultry.

"Likewise poultrymen in the North are unable to grow chickens for early market satisfactorily. In the darkness of long winters the chickens suffer from 'weak legs.' This is nothing but rickets and ultra-violet rays cure them. Hughes of the Kansas experiment station exposed hens to ultra-violet rays ten minutes a day and doubled their egg production. Further, the weight of the individual egg was increased 20 per cent.

"I am personally convinced that pine trees in our forests, deprived of light, suffer from rickets just as humans do. We shall hang ultra-violet quartz lights about the woods in the course of our experiments and see what the result is."

Doctor Bowie pointed out that the employment of ultra-violet rays is not new, that they were used by Egyptians, Romans and Greeks, but that their chemical nature was not known. Their identification and control age of recent accomplishment. Among others, Finns in Copenhagen succeeded in curing a skin form of tuberculosis and in showing the beneficial effects in the treatment of snailpox.

"In America, however, progress has been retarded and some such event as the production of this quartz has been needed to redirect attention to the subject," said Dr. Bowie. "American doctors did not understand the scientific side of ultra-violet therapy. Its use developed into a bad form of quackery. Apparatus called ultra-violet lamps which did not emit any of the rays Finns relied upon were used. The result has been that many reputable physicians of America have refused to have anything to do with it."

Essence of Sunlight the Year Round

Those conducting experiments with fused quartz point out that if the new quartz merely makes it possible eventually for the average home to have the essence of sunlight, artificial or natural, the year round, in bad weather and good, its meaning in health to countless thousands who, "grown under glass" have been deprived of the beneficial qualities of sunlight, heat excepted, is likely to prove measureless. It is believed that the action of the ultra-violet ray is sufficiently well known to make this possibility a prediction and that indoor living, or residence in regions overcast for long periods, need not be so hazardous in the future. If the views of some scientists are to be accepted, Mr. Berry will be regarded as the man who made "perpetual sunshine" possible.

"There are now opened possibilities of studying the effect of ultra-violet rays on the fundamental instinct of migration and hibernation and upon the inherited characters of animals and plants," according to President Little. "It will be possible also to compare the effect of ultra-violet and X-rays on identical material."

"Also, the fact that strains of mice at the university's laboratory have long been used for research with cancer lays open a field of prospective value in the relation between ultra-violet rays and biology and medicine."

Cost of World War is Fixed at $30,689,000,000

New York.—A book, "The Inter-Ally Debts," published by the Bankers' Trust company, estimates the total cost of the World war at $30,689,000,000 gold. That sum would reproduce all the railway mileage of the world, with more than $20,000,000,000 to spare for other uses.

During nearly two hundred and twenty-six years there were eight major wars, each at what was considered an enormous cost at the time. The wars of William III cost $150,000,000, the War of Austrian Succession $200,000,000, and the Seven Years' war $350,000,000. The American war cost $500,000,000 and the French wars, from 1792 to 1815, about $6,000,000,000. Later, the Crimean war cost $30,000,000, and finally, the Boer war cost about $1,500,000,000. In spite of all that, the total cost of government for Great Britain in that period amounted to but $33,000,000,000.

As for our own government, the total cost from 1791 until 1914, including the costs of the War of 1812, of the Mexican war, of the Civil war, of the Indian campaigns and of the Spanish war, together with pensions, purchase of Louisiana, Alaska and payment for the Philippines, as well as the cost of building the Panama canal, all combined, amounted to $24,500,000,000—less than one-third the cost of the World war.

"Wonder Child" Puzzle
to Russian Physicians

Moscow.—Soviet Russia has produced a "wonder child," a boy four years and ten months old, named Victor, son of a Vladivostok physician, who already wears a full beard of whiskers and is able to throw a full-grown man in a wrestling match. The learned professor, Leontief, and his colleague, Doctor Bosik, who examined Victor, speak about hypertrophical development, the thyroid, pancreatic and other glands and a "mysterious malady" from which the child is suffering. But Victor continues to grow despite them and their treatment. The precocious infant, who walks stiffly and stumblingly, plays like a child and has a child's mentality, yet he can choke his small playmates black faced. He puzzles professors as the great country where he was born puzzles Western theorists.

The judges stated that this year's exposition appeared to be greater than any other peony show held in Duluth, and that peony development in that city shows improvement with each year, due perhaps to the ideal climate for the cultivation of the flowers. The exhibits were housed in the savings department of the First National bank of Duluth.

A NEW MINING CODE

THE Milford mine flood proved a tomb for 41 miners and brought suffering in its train, but from the awful experience has risen a proposed code of new mining laws.

The talent of the Milford mine investigation and that of experts called, mining engineers, leading mine owners and practical miners, all will be utilized to evolve a code that will make for the maximum of safety of men employed in the mines.

DOWN in Minneapolis the thieves are getting so desperate they steal whole safes and their contents. The Kings X candy store in Minneapolis, in spite of its protective name, was robbed of its safe and $2,000 cash contents.

A PROPHET commences to feel he is with honor in his own country when a contemporary writes a nice comment about some effusion he may have evolved.

HOT weather may have its discomforts for the city dweller, but it makes the farmer happy and shoots his corn so much nearer to fruition.

FUSED QUARTZ AS AID TO HEALTH

Makes Healing Ultra-Violet Rays Independent of Sun.

New York.—The perfected method of making fused quartz in quantities, as announced recently by the General Electric company, is expected to make man independent of the sun's rays so far as his ability to obtain ultra-violet rays are concerned, according to the opinion of scientists now engaged in experimenting with the newly developed material.

E. R. Berry, assistant director of the Thomson research laboratory of the General Electric company, announced that he had enlisted the services of Dr. W. T. Bowie, professor of biophysics at Harvard medical school, and Dr. Clarence C. Little of the University of Maine and their institutions to further important experiments in the use of fused quartz.

The property which makes fused quartz stand out above all others is its ability to transmit ultra-violet rays, the healing chemical rays which, emitted by the sun, cause sunburn. These rays are excluded by ordinary window glass.

Now that Mr. Berry has made it possible to produce fused quartz in quantities, efforts are being made to learn whether it will be practicable to use the material in the extensive manufacture of electric bulbs.

Independent of the Sun.

"If we can provide artificial illuminants that will emit ultra-violet rays we won't have to depend on the sun, which is so uncertain in winter," said Doctor Bowie. "We can get the sun's effects on cloudy days by using quartz bulbs or tubes with incandescent light."

Doctor Bowie is planning to erect on the grounds of Harvard university a greenhouse glassed with quartz in which will be determined certain effects of the rays upon growing plants with a view to applying any knowledge thus gained to improving human health or preventing human diseases. Experiments with a similar object are to be made in the University of Maine laboratories, where conditions are considered especially favorable.

While those who have undertaken the experiments with quartz desire to refrain from raising false hopes as to the possibility of curing or preventing certain stubborn diseases, they feel encouraged that infant mortality from rickets, particularly in crowded cities, may be further reduced as a result of the work.

"We all know that exclusion of light results in the blanching of plants," said Doctor Bowie. "They may become more succulent for table purposes, but their tissues are not stout and well developed. This is because calcium and phosphorus salts are not deposited in the absence of the ultra-violet rays in sunlight."

"Similarly, if babies are submitted to the same absence of sunlight, or of ultra-violet rays, their bones do not grow, and hence rickets set in. This is a common disease, how common is not generally realized. It is perhaps little realized, either, that it is prevalent among the babies of the well-to-do who are not allowed to play in the streets."

"Remember that playing in the sun, behind window glass, does not expose the children to these beneficial rays. However, quartz windows which do admit these rays are now entirely within the bounds of possibility as a result of Mr. Berry's work."

"But to get back to rickets. Autopsies on babies in Dresden showed that of those who were born in the fall and died in the spring, 95 per cent had rickets. Of those who were born in the spring and died in the fall only a very small percentage had rickets. The babies born in the spring were outdoors in the sunlight during the summer."

After remarking that the sun's effects could be obtained on cloudy days by the use of quartz bulbs, Doctor Bowie added: "Certain foods act sympathetically to sunlight. It is not inconceivable that we could light our restaurants with sources of ultra-violet light so that while partaking of foods rich in phosphorus and calcium we could partake of light energy that would enable us to utilize these salts in normal manner."

"There are diseases other than rickets which are due to faulty metabolism, the 'machine gun sneeze' is one. Such diseases might be alleviated by feeding calcium lactate and using ultra-violet light in connection with it."

"Altogether, the availability of quartz suggests very interesting possibilities. With Doctor Little we are undertaking the investigation of the effects of the ultra-violet rays on the calcium metabolism of milk cows. The object, of course, is to see if the rays can have any effect on the milk we feed our babies. It is not improbable. Other animals feel the effect of the lack of these rays. Deep-sea fish do not produce bones, though living in water prodigally saturated with calcium salts. Fish of the same species living in the upper water, where the sun rays strike through, have bones in profusion."

Ultra-Violet Rays for Poultry.

"Likewise poultrymen in the North are unable to grow chickens for early market satisfactorily. In the darkness of long winters the chickens suffer from 'weak legs.' This is nothing but rickets and ultra-violet rays cure them. Hughes of the Kansas experiment station exposed hens to ultra-violet rays ten minutes a day and doubled their egg production. Further, the weight of the individual egg was increased 20 per cent.

"I am personally convinced that pine trees in our forests, deprived of light, suffer from rickets just as humans do. We shall hang ultra-violet quartz lights about the woods in the course of our experiments and see what the result is."

Doctor Bowie pointed out that the employment of ultra-violet rays is not new, that they were used by Egyptians, Romans and Greeks, but that their chemical nature was not known. Their identification and control are of recent accomplishment. Among others, Finsen in Copenhagen succeeded in curing a skin form of tuberculosis and in showing the beneficial effects in the treatment of snailpox.

"In America, however, progress has been retarded and some such event as the production of this quartz has been needed to redirect attention to the subject," said Dr. Bowie. "American doctors did not understand the scientific side of ultra-violet therapy. Its use developed into a bad form of quackery. Apparatus called ultra-violet lamps which did not emit any of the rays Finsen relied upon were used. The result has been that many reputable physicians of America have refused to have anything to do with it."

Essence of Sunlight the Year Round

Those conducting experiments with fused quartz point out that if the new quartz merely makes it possible eventually for the average home to have the essence of sunlight, artificial or natural, the year round, in bad weather and good, its meaning in health to countless thousands who, "grown under glass" have been deprived of the beneficial qualities of sunlight, heat excepted, is likely to prove measureless. It is believed that the action of the ultra-violet ray is sufficiently well known to make this possibility a prediction and that indoor living, or residence in regions overcast for long periods, need not be so hazardous in the future. If the views of some scientists are to be accepted, Mr. Berry will be regarded as the man who made "perpetual sunshine" possible.

"There are now opened possibilities of studying the effect of ultra-violet rays on the fundamental instinct of migration and hibernation and upon the inherited characters of animals and plants," according to President Little. "It will be possible also to compare the effect of ultra-violet and X-rays on identical material."

"Also, the fact that strains of mice at the university's laboratory have long been used for research with cancer lays open a field of prospective value in the relation between ultra-violet rays and biology and medicine."

Cost of World War is Fixed at $80,689,000,000

New York.—A book, "The Inter-Ally Debts," published by the Bankers' Trust company, estimates the total cost of the World war at $80,689,000,000 gold. That sum would reproduce all the railway mileage of the world, with more than $20,000,000,000 to spare for other uses.

During nearly two hundred and twenty-six years there were eight major wars, each at what was considered an enormous cost at the time. The wars of William III cost $150,000,000, the War of Austrian Succession $200,000,000, and the Seven Years' war $350,000,000. The American war cost $500,000,000 and the French wars, from 1792 to 1815, about $3,600,000,000. Later, the Crimean war cost $350,000,000, and finally, the Boer war cost about $1,500,000,000. In spite of all that, the total cost of government for Great Britain in that period amounted to but $53,000,000,000.

As for our own government, the total cost from 1791 until 1914, including the costs of the War of 1812, of the Mexican war, of the Civil war, of the Indian campaigns and of the Spanish war, together with pensions, purchase of Louisiana, Alaska and payment for the Philippines, as well as the cost of building the Panama canal, all combined, amounted to $24,500,000,000—less than one-third the cost of the World war.

"Wonder Child" Puzzle to Russian Physicians

Moscow.—Soviet Russia has produced a "wonder child," a boy four years and ten months old, named Victor, son of a Vladivostok physician, who already wears a full beard of whiskers and is able to throw a full-grown man in a wrestling match. The learned professor, Leontief, and his colleague, Doctor Bosik, who examined Victor, speak about hypertrophical development, the thyroid, pancreatic and other glands and a "mysterious malady" from which the child is suffering. But Victor continues to grow despite them and their treatment. The precocious infant, who walks stiffly and stumbingly, plays like a child and has a child's mentality, yet he can choke his small playmates black faced. He puzzles professors as the great country where he was born puzzles Western theorists.

Trees Six Cougars

Montesano, Wash.—For the pet of a cougar recently killed by himself, Jack Eckstrand of Aberdeen has received from Auditor W. D. Campbell a bounty of $20. Eckstrand killed the cougar near the headwaters of the Satsop river. He told Mr. Campbell that at the time his dogs had tread six of the animals, but owing to the lateness of the hour the others got away in the growing darkness.

MAIL BANDIT HAS HARD LIFE, KEEPS BUT LITTLE LOOT

HAS MOST PRECARIOUS EXISTENCE IN CRIMINAL WORLD

PLIES HIS TRADE UNDER THE MOST PERILOUS CONDITIONS

By MILTON MacKAYE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Washington, July 17.—The mail bandit leads the most precarious existence of the criminal world.

He plies his trade under the most perilous conditions; he has only the slightest chance of getting away with his loot and his hide intact. His profession is essentially a sporting one—he must play a long shot for big stakes.

Besides mail robbery, forgery is a sure thing; kidnapping is a sinecure, and gang murder is child's play.

And the reason is that Uncle Sam never admits defeat. The hounds in the postal inspector's office will maintain their chase indefinitely. It may take them 10 years—20 years—50 years, but a robbery case is never closed until they get their man.

The Chicago mail robbery during June and the disappearance of between $1,000,000 and $2,000,000 is the most recent illustration of the difficulty of beating the game. Within a week, inspectors had rounded up a part of the gang and recovered the greater portion of the money.

Figures recently prepared by Rush D. Simmons, chief post office inspector, show that the mail robber hasn't one chance in 10 of success.

According to the figures there were 16 big holdups in 1921, 18 in 1922, and six in 1923. In the 1921 cases, 73 arrests were made and $3,500,000 of $6,000,000 stolen recovered. In only two of the crimes were there neither arrests nor recovery.

In only one of eight major robberies in the same year did the bandit escape with his loot. In 1922, there were only two of the hold-ups in which there were neither arrests or recoveries. This approximates a percentage of 11 for the bandit and 89 for the inspectors.

In 1923, with six hold-ups, there were 23 arrests and but one case in which neither arrests nor recoveries were made—about a 17 per cent average for the criminal.

The Net Losses

The total losses resulting from the hold-up of mail trains and other postal agencies from 1921 to 1923 inclusive, totalled $11,217,209. The recoveries were $7,200,192, leaving an actual loss of $4,017,017.

This amount, however, is infinitesimal in comparison to the billions of dollars in securities entrusted to the care of the government and which are delivered safely.

During the war $50,000,000,000 in Liberty Bonds found their way to the mail cars belonging to Uncle Sam. This enormous amount was transported without the loss of a dollar.

Millions are carried to the various federal reserve banks yearly—to say nothing of the money and valuables representing the property of thousands of national and state banks, and the annual transmission of 500,000,000 postage stamps.

The Post Office department fully expects to apprehend all criminals who escaped following depredations during the 1921-1923 period and recover much of the property.

These fugitives may meet the same fate as James Johnson, "Portland Ned," famous safe-cracker. Johnson burglarized a postoffice in Danbury, N. C., June 13, 1898. He was captured 16 years later and began serving his sentence January 22, 1915.

But while persistence is the strong point of the inspectors, their best investigators are by no means deficient in ingenuity and craft.

During the past year, inspectors were puzzled by the continued rifling of letters and packages in the southwest section of the country. After some work on the case, the thefts finally were narrowed to one of six postoffices. Then the force was baffled. They seemed unable to determine in which office the burglary had been practiced.

One feature of all the thefts was that after the letters had been opened, they were resealed. This gave one of the inspectors an idea—which he secretly followed out.

Traced by Odor

A few weeks later, he was handed another letter which had been opened and resealed. He moistened the mucilage on the flap and lifted the envelope to his nose. After a good, long sniff, he announced that he had apprehended the thief.

Here was the idea which worked out. He prepared six lots of mucilage and sent one to each postoffice. The first was scented with lilac, the second with violet, and the other with rose, heliotrope, mignonette and lily of the valley.

The criminal had been given away by the odor of the mucilage with which he resealed the rifled package.

The perils of the mail bandit are not limited to apprehensions, however. He knows that his "long shot" includes taking his life in his hands. For every postal clerk on mail trains is armed with a rifle, and he has orders to "shoot to kill."

STREETCARS USED

LESS NOW, CLAIM

FINANCIER TESTIFIES PATRONAGE IS BELOW POPULATION INCREASE

St. Paul, July 17.—Use of streetcars is not keeping up with the increase in population in the Twin Cities.

This was the declaration of Robert Webb, president, Minneapolis Trust Co., on the stand before the state railroad and warehouse commission this morning in trying to show why the Twin City lines should have a large return.

The commission is now holding a joint hearing on the rate of the return.

Mr. Webb and other financiers were called by the streetcar company. Bus and auto companies of the last few years have cut into all trolley companies, he said, and as a result the investing public is not as much inclined to buy streetcar securities as other kinds.

Officials of Minneapolis and St. Paul will attempt to show that the skepticism of the public is mostly due to the failure of the streetcar management to properly present their securities on the market.

L. E. Wakefield, vice president, Wells, Dickey Co., Minneapolis, testified that the market for traction securities such as are offered occasionally by both the St. Paul and Minneapolis streetcar companies, is based on present earnings and future business, but because of the increasing competition of public and private transportation system, it is most difficult to foretell how successfully such offerings may be disposed of.

FRAZIER WINS AND LOSES A POINT IN FEDERAL CLAIMS

Arthur Frazier, South Dakota Indian World War veteran, has gained one point and lost another.

His right to be recognized by the war department as Frazier, who, the government maintains was killed in action and buried, culminated in the digging up of the body buried as Frazier's at Niobrara, Neb.

It was learned today that the report to the government shows the man buried may have been anywhere from 5 feet to 5 feet 7 1/2 inches tall and could not be identified positively. That helped his case.

Government records, however, show Frazier was 5 feet 7 1/2 inches tall, and the South Dakotan is more than an inch shorter, officials found.

Winnipeg, Man., July 17.—With a decisive majority for straight government control of liquor, the electorate of Saskatchewan defeated prohibition in the polls Wednesday.

At midnight Wednesday returns from 1117 out to 2851 polls in the province showed 49,926 in favor of prohibition, 691,621 against, 51,123 favoring straight government control of liquor and 42,040 favoring government control plus the sale of beer on licensed premises.

Returns from the remaining polls are not expected to change this general run of the vote.

LADIES! LOOK YOUNG, DARKEN GRAY HAIR

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks streaked, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred-fold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which is merely the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully, besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application, or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.—Advt.

This amount, however, is infinitesimal in comparison to the billions of dollars in securities entrusted to the care of the government and which are delivered safely.

During the war $50,000,000,000 in Liberty Bonds found their way to the mail cars belonging to Uncle Sam. This enormous amount was transported without the loss of a dollar.

Millions are carried to the various federal reserve banks yearly—to say nothing of the money and valuables representing the property of thousands of national and state banks, and the annual transmission of 500,000,000 postage stamps.

The Post Office department fully expects to apprehend all criminals who escaped following depredations during the 1921-1923 period and recover much of the property.

These fugitives may meet the same fate as James Johnson, "Portland Ned," famous safe-cracker. Johnson burglarized a postoffice in Danbury, N. C., June 13, 1898. He was captured 16 years later and began serving his sentence January 22, 1915.

But while persistence is the strong point of the inspectors, their best investigators are by no means deficient in ingenuity and craft.

During the past year, inspectors were puzzled by the continued rifling of letters and packages in the southwest section of the country. After some work on the case, the thefts finally were narrowed to one of six postoffices. Then the force was baffled. They seemed unable to determine in which office the burglary had been practiced.

One feature of all the thefts was that after the letters had been opened, they were resealed. This gave one of the inspectors an idea—which he secretly followed out.

Traced by Odor

A few weeks later, he was handed another letter which had been opened and resealed. He moistened the mucilage on the flap and lifted the envelope to his nose. After a good, long sniff, he announced that he had apprehended the thief.

Here was the idea which worked out. He prepared six lots of mucilage and sent one to each postoffice. The first was scented with lilac, the second with violet, and the other with rose, heliotrope, mignonette and lily of the valley.

The criminal had been given away by the odor of the mucilage with which he resealed the rifled package.

The perils of the mail bandit are not limited to apprehensions, however. He knows that his "long shot" includes taking his life in his hands. For every postal clerk on mail trains is armed with a rifle, and he has orders to "shoot to kill."

STREETCARS USED

LESS NOW, CLAIM

FINANCIER TESTIFIES PATRONAGE IS BELOW POPULATION INCREASE

St. Paul, July 17.—Use of streetcars is not keeping up with the increase in population in the Twin Cities.

This was the declaration of Robert Webb, president, Minneapolis Trust Co., on the stand before the state railroad and warehouse commission this morning in trying to show why the Twin City lines should have a large return.

The commission is now holding a joint hearing on the rate of the return.

Mr. Webb and other financiers were called by the streetcar company.

Bus and auto companies of the last few years have cut into all trolley companies, he said, and as a result the investing public is not as much inclined to buy streetcar securities as other kinds.

Officials of Minneapolis and St. Paul will attempt to show that the skepticism of the public is mostly due to the failure of the streetcar management to properly present their securities on the market.

L. E. Wakefield, vice president, Wells, Dickey Co., Minneapolis, testified that the market for traction securities such as are offered occasionally by both the St. Paul and Minneapolis streetcar companies, is based on present earnings and future business, but because of the increasing competition of public and private transportation system, it is most difficult to fortell how successfully such offerings may be disposed of.

Edmund H. Barbour, who is suffering from heart disease and is unable to see far, caused a sensation in the East Cambridge, Mass., court in the trial of Daniel H. Coakley, disbarred Boston lawyer, and William J. Corcoran, former Middlesex County District Attorney, charged with extortion of money from the octogenarian. Barbour testified that he paid to Coakley $362,000 in cash, bonds and stocks following a "petting" party he had in his office with a "Mrs. Daley." The photograph shows Barbour leaving the court with his attorney, Courtney Crocker.

FRAZIER WINS AND LOSES A POINT IN FEDERAL CLAIMS

Arthur Frazier, South Dakota Indian World war veteran, has gained one point and lost another.

His fight to be recognized by the war department as Frazier, who, the government maintains was killed in action and buried, culminated in the digging up of the body buried as Frazier's at Niobrara, Neb.

It was learned today that the report to the government shows the man buried may have been anywhere from 5 feet to 5 feet 7 1/2 inches tall and could not be identified positively. That helped his case.

Government records, however, show Frazier was 5 feet 7 1/2 inches tall, and the South Dakotan is more than an inch shorter, officials found.

Saskatchewan Defeats Prohibition at Polls Wednesday

(By United Press)
Winnipeg, Man., July 17.—With a decisive majority for straight government control of liquor, the electorate of Saskatchewan defeated prohibition in the polls Wednesday.

At midnight Wednesday returns from 1117 out of 2851 polls in the province showed 49,926 in favor of prohibition, 691,621 against, 51,123 favoring straight government control of liquor and 42,040 favoring government control plus the sale of beer on licensed premises.

Returns from the remaining polls are not expected to change this general run of the vote.

LADIES! LOOK YOUNG, DARKEN GRAY HAIR

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks streaked, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred-fold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which is merely the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully, besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application, or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.—Adv.

St. Paul, July 17.—Attacking Sen. Robert La Follette and the plan of government ownership of railroads Capt. John W. Gorby, director of public relations of the American Economic Institute, Chicago, yesterday presented the case of the railroads before the Rotary club.

He compared the results of federal control of railroads with those of private ownership, showing that more efficient management and greater results have been achieved by railroad management.

He said that labor unions are all right, but that the radical leaders in the movement to establish government ownership are equally dangerous to capital and to labor.

Nipped a Plot to Kidnap the Wealthy Girl

By AUGUSTUS SHERWIN
(©, 1924, Western Newspaper Union.)

"I T'S pure gold, mister. Give me the price of a meal and you can have it."

Bryce Hulbert regarded the speaker carelessly. He was of the genus tramp, ragged, frowzy, dissolute looking. He held in his hand a medal, souvenir or watch chain, with an undecipherable monogram, apparently embracing oriental symbols. It was a bluish stone, rimmed with copper.

"Where did you get it?" he inquired. "Just found it. Say, I'm hungry." Hulbert passed the man a small coin. He was poor himself, but it was his way to help the needy clear down the line. The man bolted away for the nearest gin shop.

There was a small ring imbedded in the medallion. Hulbert affixed it to his watch chain, a chain having only a pawnbroker's check at its pocket end.

Hulbert soon forgot about the trinket upon his watch chain. Economy was forced upon him, owing to the state of his exchequer. That evening a somewhat unique array of food in the window of a little eating resort bearing a name in Greek letters over its door, allured him to enter the place.

He had noticed, while he ate, two men at a neighboring table observing him narrowly. Just as Hulbert arose to leave the place one of them approached him. He looked Hulbert squarely in the eye, slightly drew back his coat and there, on the lapel of his vest, there showed the prototype of the trinket that Hulbert wore at his watch chain.

"You are ready?" he said, simply. Hulbert bowed. He recognized instantly that he was mistaken for another, but the spirit of adventure possessed him.

"Your work is all laid out for you," the stranger said in a cautious tone, "if your ship is at moorings."

Again Hulbert nodded.

"Then come. Our orders are to place the woman in your charge."

The man beckoned to his comrade. The latter bobbed his head in token of introduction. They led Hulbert from the place.

"It would be best to get a closed carriage," observed the man who seemed to have the most to say in the premises. "There is what was given me for you," and he handed a roll of bank notes to Hulbert. "The rest will be sent as soon as you cable word of your arrival at Algiers with the woman."

Hulbert accepted the money. What was he plunging into—a kidnapping exploit? However, he nerved himself to go through it. He halted at a cab stand and engaged a four-wheeled vehicle.

After a devious route, leading into the foreign quarter of London, the vehicle halted.

"You may as well remain within the carriage," spoke Hulbert's companion. "We will bring the woman down. She is quiet." He placed a peculiar emphasis on this word. "Once aboard the ship, she will be reasonable. When she knows that to rebel is of no avail."

Five minutes later the foreigners appeared carrying a wrapped-up figure. A glint of light from the carriage lamp revealed the uncovered face of a beautiful young girl, unconscious, drugged. She was placed within the vehicle.

"You will make no miss on the plans?" spoke the man to Hulbert. "All is arranged, is it not?" replied Hulbert tersely. Then he was somewhat disturbed, for the other man got into the carriage beside him, after naming a dock on the Thames to the driver.

Hulbert had hastily formed a plan regarding what he would do as to the girl. After they had proceeded about half a mile he spoke to the man, signaling the driver to stop.

"Go get me a dozen cigars at the drug store we just passed," he directed. Then, to the driver: "Drive fast; stop for nothing."

Hulbert reached his own boarding house. He dismissed the puzzled and wondering hackman. Then he carried the girl up to his room, summoned the landlady and sent for a doctor.

It was nearly midnight when the physician succeeded in arousing the girl. For three hours thereafter she, the landlady and Hulbert, formed a trio engaged in explanations.

The young girl had been kidnaped from a private school by the foreigners. Her parents were traveling on the continent and were immensely wealthy.

The scheme had been to hold her in seclusion for a ransom.

At daylight Scotland Yard was notified. From what information Hulbert could give, the expert police were able to take up the trail of the would-be kidnapers. The entire gang were run down, the matter became public and Hulbert became a newspaper hero.

There followed the immediate return of the alarmed parents of Eunice Gadsleigh to England. They overwhelmed Hulbert with their attentions. They did more than that—they looked favorably upon the attentions of Hulbert towards their daughter.

The medallion is a souvenir in the happy family of Hulbert and Eunice, now man and wife.

So This is Paris!

You've probably heard the expression more times than you can count. Where did it originate?

It was during the shelling of Paris. A wounded American soldier, staying in the city overnight, awaiting a sick leave, awoke to find the wall of his bedroom torn away. The room was on the ground floor and he could see people rushing by in the street. A passing gendarme told him to go to some cellar for safety, but the doughboy could not understand. He was carried out later just before another shell brought the roof crashing down. Turning to one of his rescuers he made the remark, since become a byword: "So this is Paris!"

At the Lyceum Theatre, for two days, starting Friday, you will glimpse another view of Paris. The adventures of an artist in that city are portrayed in the Fox production, "A Man's Mate," starring John Gilbert.

LIST OF MOTOR TAXES DELINQUENT

127 Names Given in List, With Address of Car Owner, Make of Car, Etc.

MOTOR VEHICLE LAW QUOTED

Believed That In Most Cases Recorded, There May be Mistakes in Proceedings

W. A. M. Johnstone, clerk of the district court, has received from Mike Holm a certified list of motor vehicles that were registered in Crow Wing county in 1923, but which were not registered in 1924, and on which according to law, the tax has become delinquent.

There are 127 names on this list, together with the address of the car owner, the make of vehicle, 1923 license number, tax due and the penalty that has accrued.

It is believed that in the case of most of the owners named in this list, where the 1924 tax has not been paid, that there is some mistake in the proceedings. Either the vehicle in question has been junked or it has been sold and the transfer not recorded. In several instances it is known that the automobiles have been taken out of the state during the past year.

The motor vehicle law provides that when a car is sold from one party to another, the transfer must be registered with the secretary of state within three days thereafter. When a car is removed from the state or is dismantled and junked, the fact must be reported to the secretary of state, so that the proper records may be completed. Otherwise the owner is liable for the tax the following year.

The clerk of the district court must, according to law, issue tax warrants against those whose names appear on the list, and these must be served by the sheriff. The person named has fifteen days in which to file an answer, after which, if the failure to pay the 1924 tax is not properly explained, judgment will be entered.

The Dispatch gives herewith the complete list of delinquents, with their names, addresses, and type of vehicles involved. This list is published so that in cases where there are mistakes, the errors may be rectified at once.

MODERN WOODMEN REPORT LARGE GAINS

Members of Modern Woodmen of America in Brainerd will be interested in the fact that it made a marked growth during 1923. Its report, just filed with the State Insurance department, shows that it issued 132,000 Benefit certificates, with a net increase in membership during the year of 34,771 and $36,565,000 more insurance in force. The business done was about one-third greater than that of 1922.

Growth in membership was distributed over 42 of the 45 states in which the Society writes new business, and only two states failed to show a gain in the amount of insurance in force.

The Modern Woodmen of America was organized in 1883. Beneficial membership January 1, last, numbered 1,084,842, approximately double that of its leading competitor in the fraternal insurance field. It has $1,557,053,000 insurance in force. There are 14,144 local camps. In forty-one years it has paid 171,148 death claims, amounting to more than $295,000,000, together with 3473 70-year benefits, totaling $1,807,938. It has a surplus of $30,000,000 invested in interest-bearing securities, and cash assets of $5,000,000.

Not the least attractive of the features offered by the Modern Woodmen is a Sanatorium for the care of tuberculous members. It is located near Colorado Springs, Colo., and is rated as the best equipped and maintained of any in this country. Afflicted members in good standing are treated free, maintenance being provided for by a tax amounting

NEW OLYMPIC REGULATIONS HURT U. S.

By FRANK GETTY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, July 17.—The regulation limiting the number of contestants in each Olympic event to four, and requiring the entries to be made in advance, worked out decidedly to the disadvantage of this country.

Take the case of the broad jump, for instance.

Our coaches were forced to guess which of a number of excellent jumpers to enter in this event. They finally decided upon DeHart Hubbard, negro star from Michigan; Ned Gourdin, another negro; Comins, the intercollegiate champion, and Rose of the Pacific Coast.

The day before the broad jump was contested at Paris, Bob LeGendre, former Georgetown University star, who hails from Newark, went out in the pentathlon and jumped 25 feet 6 inches, a new world's record. It was too late to enter him in the broad jump.

As it turned out, Hubbard's leap of 24 feet 6 inches, a whole foot less than that of LeGendre, was enough to win. Hubbard hurt himself in making this jump, but no one else exceeded it. Ned Gourdin took second, but Comins was injured and Rose failed to qualify.

Had it been possible to put our best strength into the event, the United States would have scored at least four more points.

Something of the same sort happened in the 400 metres. Stevenson, the former Tiger quarter-mile, who later ran at Oxford, was not placed on the American entry list for this event. He was, however, taken along as a possible member of the 1,600-metre relay team.

When the team got to Paris, Bill started running like a house afire. He took to the Paris air and the track at Colombes Stadium and ran rings around all the Americans with whom he trained. He was reeling off 400 metre trials in record time, but it was too late to get him in the event.

Because of his action last year in defying the edict of the A. A. U. and going to Paris to compete in the French games, where he ran exhibitions, Charley Paddock was the most popular of our athletes with the French public at the Colombes Stadium. They felt quite a little antagonism towards the American team, a feeling which was not entirely unreciprocated, and looked upon Paddock as somewhat of a renegade, and so favored him. This was most unjust to Charley, who had not only co-operated warmly with his coaches and team-mates, but has made friends with Loren Murchison. The two used to be bitter enemies.

Paddock's reputation as a world-beating sprinter had spread to England, and his individuality attracted attention among the British, so much so that the Prince of Wales called Charley over to the box of honor and had a chat with him.

Paddock was not an altogether enviable figure, as he was pointed out as the "fastest human" and yet was constantly taking dust from his team-mates and others.

TONIGHT THE SEALS AND TIGERS PLAY AT THE KOERING GROUNDS

In a loosely played game the Pirates went down to defeat before the B. A. C. team last night, 13 to 1. By winning this game, the B. A. C. went to second place in the league standings, having won two and lost one. The Pirates were held scoreless until the last inning, when they made a supreme effort to stave off a white-wash and scored one run. Aro of the Pirates and Jones and Niemi of the B. A. C. each made two hits during the game. Errors played a large part in the defeat for the southeast team, ten misplays being chalked up against them.

Tonight the Seals and Tigers play at the Koering grounds, and the victors are due to tie the B. A. C. team for second place. This ought to be a good game, as each team has won three and lost two, and the only time that these teams have met during the season resulted in a 7 to 7 tie. But in view of the large scores of the last few games in the league, it is hazardous to risk a prediction as to a good game, but fans who attend are promised a good brand of ball. The only safe guess is that if each team has its full lineup, and plays the class of ball of which it is capable, the game will be as good as any seen on a local diamond this year.

(By United Press)

Paris, July 17.—Yale's crew, representing the United States, triumphed in the Olympic contest for 8-oared shells at Argenteuil this afternoon. Helen Wills defeated Molla Mallory, Skelton, the American swimmer from Northwestern University, won the final event in the Olympic pool, smashing an Olympic record, and our boxers scored repeated victories at the Velodrome, making it another red letter day for the United States.

There were disappointments, too, in the defeat of R. Norris Williams at tennis and the failure of W. E. Garrett Gilmore to repeat his victory over Jack Beresford in the single sculls. Two other American boats lost in the races on the Seine, but the day's average of American victories was a good one for our representatives.

NEW OLYMPIC REGULATIONS HURT U. S.

By FRANK GETTY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, July 17.—The regulation limiting the number of contestants in each Olympic event to four, and requiring the entries to be made in advance, worked out decidedly to the disadvantage of this country.

Take the case of the broad jump, for instance.

Our coaches were forced to guess which of a number of excellent jumpers to enter in this event. They finally decided upon DeHart Hubbard, negro star from Michigan; Ned Gourdin, another negro; Comins, the intercollegiate champion, and Rose of the Pacific Coast.

The day before the broad jump was contested at Paris, Bob LeGendre, former Georgetown University star, who hails from Newark, went out in the pentathlon and jumped 25 feet 6 inches, a new world's record. It was too late to enter him in the broad jump.

As it turned out, Hubbard's leap of 24 feet 6 inches, a whole foot less than that of LeGendre, was enough to win. Hubbard hurt himself in making this jump, but no one else exceeded it. Ned Gourdin took second, but Comins was injured and Rose failed to qualify.

Had it been possible to put our best strength into the event, the United States would have scored at least four more points.

Something of the same sort happened in the 400 metres. Stevenson, the former Tiger quarter-miler, who later ran at Oxford, was not placed on the American entry list for this event. He was, however, taken along as a possible member of the 1,600-metre relay team.

When the team got to Paris, Bill started running like a house afire. He took to the Paris air and the track at Colombes Stadium and ran rings around all the Americans with whom he trained. He was reeling off 400 metre trials in record time, but it was too late to get him in the event.

Because of his action last year in defying the edict of the A. A. U. and going to Paris to compete in the French games, where he ran exhibitions, Charley Paddock was the most popular of our athletes with the French public at the Colombes Stadium. They felt quite a little antagonism towards the American team, a feeling which was not entirely unreciprocated, and looked upon Paddock as somewhat of a renegade, and so favored him. This was most unjust to Charley, who had not only co-operated warmly with his coaches and team-mates, but has made friends with Loren Murchison. The two used to be bitter enemies.

Paddock's reputation as a world-beating sprinter had spread to England, and his individuality attracted attention among the British, so much so that the Prince of Wales called Charley over to the box of honor and had a chat with him.

Paddock was not an altogether enviable figure, as he was pointed out as the "fastest human" and yet was constantly taking dust from his team-mates and others.

EPINARD, FRENCH TURF STAR, AT BELMONT PARK WHERE TRAINING FOR RACES WORTH $100,000 HAS BEGUN

Epinard, the best horse in Europe as a three year old last season, made the trip to America without any of the pomp that attended the voyage of Papyrus last year. He was in good condition when he arrived at the Belmont Park race course where Trainer Eugene Leigh (shown above with Epinard) is conditioning him for a series of races with the pick of American thoroughbreds.
